

Airborne -Turbulence - CD Reviews

Airborne are back with their fifth CD release 'Turbulence'. It retains much of the excellence that grabbed attention the last time around and widens horizons to demonstrate huge empathy with the music of many cultures. In fact the entire collection is a rollercoaster ride of moods and emotions, writing credits and the superb vocals are at the core of all its best moments.

Totally typical of what Airborne does best, produce tracks of genuine substance. Tight, edgy, yet very smooth and spiced with excellent musicianship and arrangements, everything that Airborne represents. A vibe that is uniquely Airborne, fresh and eclectic, 'Turbulence' is well worth discovering.

Denis Poole – Smooth Jazz Therapy

Airborne is more than a jazz ensemble. It is a group of dedicated musicians, who share the same cause and philosophy: bringing peace, love and tolerance to our world through their music. They have stuck to this belief since their beginning and have opened up their music to multi-culturalism and global unity.

When listening to this stunning and graceful CD, you will notice that this ensemble plants musical "seeds of peace" and uses music to help make our dream of a better world come true. So, let yourself be guided by these "musical peacemakers. Turbulence is a great musical achievement.

Akbar Nour – Smooth Jazz Now

"Airborne is a band with a mission... the multi-cultural contemporary jazz group from New England takes flight with their 5th release Turbulence setting the objective on using their musical energies for calming an otherwise disruptive world. What the world needs is more people who do what they love to do with purpose and confidence and because they love doing it... genuine and big-hearted....delightful, lively and filled with life... ..joyful jazz with a message"

Sandy Shore – Smoothjazz.com

Airborne's fifth album, Turbulence meets all your expectations of what you imagine an eminent jazz album would be like. Airborne have produced an album that is a portrait of jazz music's charms and supple movements making music that is idealistic and proofed for party mixers. Turbulence gives jazz music a very good feel.

Susan Frances - Jazz Review

Airborne is the type of group and Turbulence is the type of recording that represents what I love about contemporary jazz – it's like unwrapping an unexpected gift and discovering, for the first time, something you like but didn't know existed.

It never ceases to amaze and at the same time perplex me – the sheer talent and originality of these jazz artists. This is good stuff - check it out!

John Luciano – Contemporaryjazz.com

This crew is in flight & they are dynamic!

Exquisitely from New Haven, CT., This crew releases their 5th CD of choice to the Contemporary Jazz Crowd with a little Urban flair in the mix. It reflects on a societal note of worldwide news & differences to the matter of heart & soul. The music in jazz from these players connects the dots to what you hear in the environment today. Especially to those seeking reminisce to the original Contemporary jazz game & the music it speaks for!

For jazz artists such as them, their true testimony may ride into their consistency & passion for music in this project. The overall feel! It speaks loudly throughout the CD & yes.....

It's highly recommended!

Terrill J. Hanna – The Urban Music Scene